| SECTION 2 | RESPONSES | |
| What would your top three priorities be if elected as Attorney General? | "I would focus on the following: the opioid crisis, ensuring drug companies are held accountable for their role in addiction and overdoses; ensuring the state upholds their pension obligations to Kentucky's teachers and public workers; and protecting everyone's right to affordable and accessible healthcare, regardless of pre-existing conditions." | "1. Depoliticize the office by enforcing the laws passed by the General Assembly, including all pro-life measures; 2. Focus on the drug epidemic, by increasing the number of drug investigators; and 3. Establish a presence of the office outside of Louisville and Frankfort." |
| Recent Attorneys General have not defended some Kentucky laws. What will you do when asked to defend a law with which you disagree? | "The role of the Attorney General is to defend the law. Politics and personal opinion have no place in the office and I would approach the role as such. However, if the legislature passes something unconstitutional, then it would be a waste of taxpayers' money to defend." | "My guiding principle will be the Constitution, state and federal, and the oath that I take to uphold and enforce the laws of the Commonwealth of Kentucky." |
| As Attorney General, what new efforts would you make to combat illegal drug use and trafficking in Kentucky? | "As AG before, I created the Kentucky Bureau of Investigation to investigate the illegal drug trade, public corruption, Medicaid fraud and more. I intend to reactivate the KBI and focus on those engaged in these illegal activities. Our drug unit from my prior term as AG was recognized as the top enforcement unit (state or federal) in Kentucky." | "I will increase the number of drug investigators in the office. I will work closely with the Trump-appointed federal prosecutors who have jurisdiction in Kentucky to ensure that our prosecutorial priorities are aligned and focused on ridding Kentucky of traffickers." |
| In your opinion, can new forms of gambling expand into Kentucky without a constitutional amendment? | "Expanded gambling remains the purview of the state legislature, but I have supported expanded gambling and was the primary sponsor of the Lottery. A constitutional amendment was required then because of a prohibition against establishing a 'state operated lottery' – no such prohibition exists for expanded gambling." | "No." |

|---|--|---|
| What are your recommendations for trimming the budget and cutting government waste? | “During my previous tenure as AG and my time in the legislature, I have always supported a trim but effective budget. As the bulk of the AG’s office is in direct services for the state and its citizens, ensuring that taxpayer dollars are efficiently used is a top priority.” | “The AG must be careful about wasteful spending as it relates to suing the governor and General Assembly, especially on pro-life measures. I will approach every matter that comes before my office with that consideration in mind.” |
| If elected, what do you see as the most important issue you will face in the next four years? | “The opioid crisis and holding drug manufacturing and distributing corporations accountable for their role in the drug epidemic as the most important issue we will face. Kentucky’s people are dying daily after being deceived by drug companies for years, and we owe it to our citizens to hold them accountable.” | “The drug epidemic is the most important issue. Per the most recent data, Kentucky lost 1,565 individuals to drug overdoses. Kentucky needs an AG who will reestablish this office as the Chief Law Enforcement Office.” |
| After four years, what will your office have accomplished to improve life in Kentucky? | “Our office will have cracked down on the exploitation felt by thousands of Kentuckians at the hands of big drug companies, consumer scams, unlawful breakdowns of pension promises to public service workers, and more. I am committed to be the watchdog for Kentuckians.” | “We will have stood up for the rights of the unborn. We will have established a visible presence of the AG’s office outside of Frankfort and Louisville. We will have made significant advances in the fight against the drug epidemic.” |
| What strengths do you possess that make you the best candidate for this office? | “I have experience not only in the law, but in defending Kentuckians against the predatory practices of drug companies and big corporations. I have defended average, every day Kentuckians the majority of my life and I see this as my life’s work. I have been AG before so I don’t need ‘on the job’ training, and have been an active trial advocate for over 40 years.” | “I believe in servant leadership. The AG should serve the public safety interests of all Kentuckians in all 120 counties. That, coupled with my hard work ethic, makes me well-suited to be the AG into the coming decade.” |
| Why would you be more effective in this office than your opponent? | “My opponent has very little experience – almost none- in the courtroom and mostly made his career in Washington DC. Trial experience is necessary for this job. With me, Kentuckians will be getting an experienced, born and raised Kentuckian whose life’s work has been in protecting the people of this fine state.” | “While Senator McConnell’s general counsel, I worked closely with Kentucky Law Enforcement. I have established very strong relationships with that community, giving me an advantage in reestablishing the credibility of the office as the Chief Law Enforcement Office.” |
| To know you more personally, what issue(s), unrelated to the office you seek, are you passionate about? | “I’m an avid outdoorsman and spent my life fishing and hunting. I also enjoy golf. But first comes my family. Our faith in God and each other allows us to survive the trials of public life and I am so thankful for their continued love and support.” | “I am very passionate about Christians engaging in the market place and in the public square. As believers, we should be actively engaged in public life and in the market place, so that our values are represented in public dialogue.” |
